Liberty man charged with rape, sodomy

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A former employee of the Galilean Home has been arrested and faces charges that he had sex with an adult mentally handicapped resident.

Michael E. Burt, 62, of 506 Ridgefield Drive, Liberty, was arrested on June 6 at 4:18 p.m. at his home by KSP Trooper Ricky Brooks and charged with 10 counts of first-degree rape, incapable of consent-physically helpless, and 20 counts of first-degree sodomy, incapable of consent-physically helpless-with serious physical injury, court records show.

Brooks was acting on a complaint from the Green County Department of Social Services office that someone fondled mental retardation residents at the Galilean Home.

After interviewing three residents at the home, one admitted to having sex with Burt multiple times, court records show.

Burt then admitted to Brooks having what he said was "consensual sex" with an adult female — a resident at the Galilean Home — more than 10 times from June 2011 to May 2012.

When asked if additional charges involving other residents could be filed against Burt, KSP Spokesman William Gregory at Post 15 said it's a possibility.

Burt appeared before Casey District Court Judge Michael Loy on Thursday morning where he pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Burt is being held in the Casey County Detention Center on a $100,000 cash bond. He declined requests for an interview.

He is scheduled to be in Casey District Court for a

New reporter joins Casey News staff

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Amanda Cole of Russell County joined The Casey County News June 6 as a staff writer.

Cole, 25, a native of Henry County, said that she's looking forward to working in Liberty and Casey County.

"I'm very excited to be here at The Casey County News and I'm looking forward to getting to know the community and meet everyone," she said.

Cole said she likes the fact that Liberty is a small town in a rural setting like Casey County.

"I'm happy it's a small town like Eminence in Henry County and something that I'm familiar with," she said.

Cole received a degree in journalism in 2009 from Northern Kentucky University in Highland Heights.

She also won the Outstanding Senior award in journalism from NKU.

Soon after her freshman year in the summer of 2006, Cole knew she wanted to work at a newspaper so she was hired at the Henry County Local on a part-time basis.

The summer of 2007, Cole completed a 10-week internship with the Spencer Magnet newspaper in Taylorsville where she wrote feature stories and helped with designing pages for the weekly edition of the paper.

But her interest in journalism actually began as a love for taking photographs while in the 10th grade at Eminence High School where she wrote for the school paper and worked on the yearbook staff.

"I started out with the old 120 film, the long narrow canister that dropped into the camera," Cole said.

That early love of taking photos would eventually pay off in high school when she wrote a photo essay the stone fences that adorn the boundaries of many Henry County farms.

The Kentucky Historical Society awarded Cole a first place prize for the essay.

Amanda married Ian Cole, a native of Russell County, in April 2011.

Brittany Emerson, General Manager/Advertising Sales Manager at The Casey County News, said that Cole is a welcome addition to the staff.

"I am excited to welcome Amanda into our Casey News family. We are fortunate to have such a strong, unique reporting team in Amanda and Larry with their high caliber of photography and writing skills, and varied backgrounds.

Those skills are being put to good use in bringing our valued readers the news each week," Emerson said.

Cole can be reached by email at acole@caseynews.net.

Fair Festivities

In spite of a sluggish economy and high unemployment, paid attendance at this year's fair was up 15 percent over last year, said Fair Board Treasurer Judy Meeks.

"This year we had 7,470 in paid attendance compared to about 6,336 last year," she said. "Four nights we had more than 1,000 people with Saturday night topping out at 1,802." Meeks said that the nights with the largest attendance featured motorsports' events such as the truck pulls and demolition derbys. Another popular draw this year, she added, was the laser tag. Meeks attributed the success of this year's event to the hard work of the Fair Board members, volunteers, and sponsors.

ABOVE, the nightly glow of the carnival rides and attractions drew large crowds to this year's fair.

City agrees to reimburse couple for damage

Damages caused by city sewer blockage

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

The Liberty City Council agreed to reimburse a Liberty couple $2,262.28 for damages to their home from a sewer blockage at a special meeting on June 8.

Ricky and Cathy Streeval of 227 Adams St. had billed the city for items lost, cleaning supplies, damages they repaired themselves, the cost of doing laundry at the laundry mat, storage and trash removal.

A plastic clean out top had become lodged in the sewer system, causing a blockage, Mayor Steve Sweeney said. The pressure caused sewage to overflow from a toilet in Streevals' basement on May 12.

The city had previously paid a contractor $6,000 for structural repairs to the Streevals' home, Sweeney said. The council agreed to pay the full requested amount on condition that the Streevals sign a letter of indemnity that the city is liable for no further costs.

The Streevals' basement is a finished apartment with a living room, bedroom, kitchen and bathroom.

The carpet, panels, insulation and commode had to be removed and replaced, Cathy said.

"There was feces all over the place," she said. "We had a lot of stuff that we lost — pictures and books that can't be replaced."

Once the problem was discovered, the site was excavated and the cap removed, Sweeney said.

"I think they have great city employees... as far as maintenance, you couldn't ask for any better than the guys who were out here working on the sewer," Cathy said.

This is the second time this has happened to the Streevals.

"The first time was three years ago," Cathy said.

The city paid the Streevals $500 but there wasn't as much damage then, she explained. To fix the problem, the city put in a clean out across the road.

"We are glad to have it repaired and to put it behind us," Sweeney said.

Cathy said they need still need to paint before the basement is finished with repairs.

Memorial Gardens

The council approved starting the bidding process to black-top Memorial Gardens cemetery. Sweeney said he thinks the cost will be under $20,000. Funds for the project would come from the general budget.

"That will be under $20,000. And if it's not, if per chance I'm totally mistaken, we'll come back again and have to vote on it," Sweeney told the council.

Mayor's report

Sweeney said tank construction is expected to start on June 14 for the new water tank on Water Tower Hill. Now that the foundation has been completed, the 500,000-gallon water storage tank will be going up.

He also reported that the city will hold its Fourth of July celebration in the morning this year in hopes that the weather will be cooler for residents.

A 5K race will start at 8 a.m. with the parade at 9 a.m. The veteran's ceremony will be at 9:30 at the Veterans Wall. Booths will be set up along Courthouse Square until 1 p.m.

Activities will include hot wheels races, a hot dog eating contest, ice cream eating contest, tug of war, corn toss, a large sandbox, and lots of food and fun, Sweeney said. The fireworks will be at 10 p.m.

Sweeney said that a progress report was sent to the members of the college planning committee for the proposed community college in downtown Liberty on the corner of Pettyjohn and Jockey Streets. The county is applying for half a million dollars in state and federal grants.

"We're cautiously optimistic that our application is meeting with good reviews," Sweeney said. "We're very hopeful that we might be breaking ground next year on the college."

EDITORIAL

Galilean Home good for county

Recent news of an alleged incident of sex crimes perpetrated against an adult female resident at the Galilean Home has created grist for the local rumor mill.

The facts, taken from court documents, are laid out in a story on today's front page. And, Galilean Home Co-founder Jerry Tucker has been very open and candid with print and TV journalists about his understanding of the circumstances surrounding this incident with a former employee of the home.

While some may convict the alleged perpetrator in the court of public opinion, a person in the U.S.A. is considered innocent until proven guilty. Let the legal system do its job.

Further, we should remember that the Galilean Home has helped more than 1,000 kids since 1986. Many people visit Casey County every year to experience the fruits of this self-sacrificing and well-run Christian ministry that includes a Christian school, a prison ministry, and the ever-popular Bread of Life Café.

Let's continue to support the Galilean Home and the wonderful work that goes on each and every day.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Not all can be explained in the natural realm

As I read about the home of Jamie Richard being destroyed by fire and his Bible being saved (Around the Area, May 30 issue), I remembered a saying I used to hear, "The truth will stand when the world is on fire."

We know God's word is truth. This is what Jesus spoke to the disciples in Mark 10:27 and Jesus, looking upon them, said, "With men it is impossible but not with God, for with God all things are possible."

If it cannot be explained in the natural realm, then look to the spiritual realm. There is always an answer. The question is "Where?"

Descended from kings

I watched some of the Diamond Jubilee festivities for Queen Elizabeth II. One newscaster made the remark that the queen was descended from William the Conqueror who became the first Norman king of England after the Battle of Hastings in 1066. What a coincidence! So am I descended from him!

Well, who actually knows? All I know is that some slick salesman got hold of my father back in the 1950s before everybody was doing genealogical studies. She told Daddy that she could trace his family tree WAY back for a small sum of money. Daddy fell for it hook, line, and sinker. She presented him with some document that said he was descended from William the Conqueror but there was no family tree included. He also got a handy-dandy little porcelain wall plaque with the official Wells coat of arms. Wells coat of arms? I think that's a hoot!

I have to admit that I have dabbled in family genealogy but haven't gone plumb crazy with it. It's fascinating until you hit a brick wall going backwards. I have two great-grandmothers I can't track and it drives me crazy. Not even Ancestry can help me.

What just kills me are the people who are so quick to tell you that they are descended from one of the pilgrims who established the Plymouth Colony in 1620 or are descended from one of the First Families of Virginia or are certified Daughters of the American Revolution or Sons of the Confederacy or more of that tommyrot. I have to tell you that I am not impressed.

Think about it. There were about 100 settlers who came here aboard the Mayflower. If half of them had two children and each of those children had two children and each of those had two children and on and on, by the time you get to the year 2012 there are thousands upon thousands of people who descended from pilgrims who landed at Plymouth Rock. It's not such an exclusive club any longer if you figure you have all those "cousins."

Out of all those "cousins" there had to be robbers, horse thieves, murderers, and other unsavory characters. Heck, all families have them. You don't hear about them, however, when one of those "I am descended from" people pass out their genealogical charts.

Television has gotten into the genealogy craze with the show "Who Do You Think You Are" that premiered last year. Famous people track down their notable ancestors (and some not so notable) with the aid of Ancestry and big bucks from NBC Television. I have to admit that I am a fan of the show but I always want the stars to follow other lines in their family tree. They never do.

Just to keep you informed, I looked up the Wells coat of arms on the Internet. Yes, there really is a Wells coat of arms and there is a lion on it. It definitely has to be my coat of arms because I love cats. Maybe ol' Bill the Conqueror really was my ancestor. I think I'll go introduce myself to my cousin, Queen Elizabeth II, and invite myself for tea.

New reporter excited to serve Casey

I know in a small town like Liberty, news travels fast. But just in case you haven't heard, let me fill you in. I'm Amanda Cole, the new reporter joining Larry Rowell at The Casey County News.

I'm familiar with the small town, rural atmosphere because I grew up on a tobacco and cattle farm in Eminence, a small, one-stoplight town in Henry County, east of Louisville.

So what brings me to Casey County? Well, that requires the story of how I met my husband, Ian Cole. When I was 13, I met a boy online from Russell Springs. After three years of talking on the internet and phone, Ian and I met in person at the Fayette Mall in Lexington in 2004. Shortly afterward, we started dating and both went on to attend Northern Kentucky University. In 2009, I graduated with a bachelor's degree in journalism and an area of concentration in photography.

After college, Ian and I got married and decided to stay in Northern Kentucky. But as the months left on the lease for our second apartment started to dwindle and our complaints about life in Greater Cincinnati grew more frequent, we started talking about moving to his hometown.

One day we sat down and wrote all of the advantages and disadvantages for the move. Ian and I both grew up in rural areas. We enjoy being able to see the stars at night and taking drives down country roads surrounded by rolling hills and farm land. Of course, everyone loves to have peace and quiet, which wasn't something easily accessible to us in the city. Plus, there is something to be said for the slower pace and friendly atmosphere that living in the country offers.

On the other hand, if we did move, we would have to find new jobs; we would miss the friends we had made in our seven years in Northern Kentucky; and we wouldn't have as many entertainment and restaurant options so close at hand.

After discussing everything on the list, we each wrote down our choice - stay or move - on a piece of paper, folded it up and handed it to the other. On the count of three, we opened them up. As you can guess, we both wrote that we wanted to make the move. We are glad we did.

The jobs are taken care of and we keep in touch with friends on Facebook. It's actually been sort of a blessing to not have as many entertainment and restaurant options so temptingly close; we've saved money.

In our last apartment, with the doors and windows closed, we could hear the hum of Interstate 75 at all hours of the day. Now it's so quiet we hear the hum of the refrigerator running, something I don't think I ever noticed before at our apartment. It's funny, the things you'll appreciate.

It feels good to be back living and working in an area where strangers smile and wave as you walk or drive by.

I'm excited to get to know and serve the people of Casey County. Please feel free to call, email, stop by the office or stop me on the street to say hello or tell me about a story idea.

This newspaper announcement is a hoot!

As a fan of history and old newspapers, I was very interested when someone stopped by the news office recently with a Dec. 30, 1942 edition of The Casey County News.

As I leafed through the insect-eaten and yellowed pages, I saw a lot of local news and only a smattering of the national happenings.

The United States had been in World War II for a little more than a year, and local efforts to support the men and women in the military were underway.

Uncle Sam asked residents at home to grow Victory Gardens and donate metals to be melted down for war materials. And respond Americans did, growing what they ate and cutting back on meat and sugar so the fighting troops could have good sustenance while fighting a war on two fronts.

However, the year 1942 also produced another kind of harvest but this one of the human kind and it was announced in the paper.

During those days, each community in Casey County had a correspondent who gathered the local news and then gave it to the newspaper.

I dearly love reading these ladies' correspondence because they had a very distinct writing style, almost flowery, but certainly heartfelt and genuine. Today, journalism lacks this human touch because it's "just the facts, ma'am."

The correspondent in Yosemite in the Dec. 30, 1942 issue conveyed happy news that a child had been born and it warmed my soul to read the facts surrounding the birth and then her wishes for the new-born baby.

"In sending the announcement of the birth of Joberta Elizabeth Wells, daughter born to Pvt. and Mrs. Lincoln J. Wells recently, the father (Josh) says the baby is named for himself, the mother and the baby's grandmother Wells.

"Along with the name Elizabeth we hope this little lady will get from her grandmother hair that remains golden brown throughout the years. And we hope she is given her father's friendliness, her mother's charm, and from her grandfather Wells we hope she acquires business ability and a constitution that will be going strong in her seventies; and from her Aunt Lillie we hope she inherits the kindness of spirit that will cause her friends to remember her always for her kindness."

I'll leave it to you to decide if the correspondent's wishes actually came to fruition almost 70 years later.

What I do know is this — here's a country correspondent who recognized that the Wells' family in Yosemite was known for being friendly, charming, having business acumen, possessing a strong constitution, and, for being kind.

These are qualities that any family would be proud to have and for the most part, Joberta Elizabeth is all these things. But, the part about the brown hair may come from a bottle. Only her hairdresser knows for sure.

Now, Joberta, that's a HOOT!

Summer program provides food for children

By Amanda Cole
Staff Writer

Free meals are available to anyone 18 and under in the county this summer through the USDA's Summer Food Service Program (SFSP).

The Casey County School District has been approved for the program to provide free, nutritious meals to help children in low-income areas get the nutrition they need throughout the summer months when they are out of school.

The county was declared eligible because all of the schools have 50 percent or more of the students receiving free or reduced lunch, said Teresa Terry, food service director with the school district.

Last summer, more than 8,000 free meals were served. This year, the Casey County High School is serving as an open site with scheduled meals through July 27 with the exception of July 2-6. Breakfast is served from 8-9 a.m. with lunch from 11:30-12:30 p.m. Monday-Friday at the high school.

The federal program is also being used in the county to supply food to churches during Vacation Bible School, evening events at the Casey County Public Library, Kids Team, 21st Century Community Learning Center summer camps, and the Jump Start Program for incoming kindergartners in July. All of the meals are prepared at the high school, where they can be picked up for delivery to the library, a church or day care as requested.

in the program every summer, said Jennifer Godbey, a supervisor with the childcare center. Breakfast and lunch is served to 50-60 kids daily.

According to Godbey, Kids Team uses the program because it's easily accessible and the meals are nutritious.

"I don't have to worry because they follow all of the food guidelines. I know they are getting the amounts of the food pyramid they're supposed to get," Godbey said.

Three churches have signed up for meals during VBS, two of which are taking place this week – Dunnville Christian Church and Christ Tabernacle. Pine Grove Community Church's VBS will be the last week of June.

The program will stay busy preparing food as Dunnville is expecting 60 children and Christ Tabernacle is requesting food for 125. A youth basketball camp at the high school will add on another 70-80.

There is paperwork and training involved. Elaine Ford, food service coordinator, thinks the paperwork is deterring more churches from taking advantage of the program.

"It's not that bad," Ford said of the paperwork. "We're willing to help them with it."

It is the responsibility of the church or organization to get someone trained on serving the meals.

"Everyone involved has to have training," Terry said.

Children must take a whole lunch – they cannot just take part – and they must eat their food on site in order for it to count as a reimbursable meal.

"I think we're fortunate to have it here in the county to serve our community," Godbey said. "Especially being a community where our total free and reduced lunch count is over 60 percent for the district."

To participate in the program, call Teresa Terry or Elaine Ford at the Casey County Board of Education at 787-6941.

A two week notice is requested to allow time to order the food.

Liberty's city water department recognized

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

The Liberty Water Department is one of 49 water treatment plants in Kentucky recognized recently by the Energy and Environment Cabinet for demonstrated success in producing drinking water in 2011 that consistently met or exceeded state water quality standards, according to a press release.

Mayor Steve Sweeney said he wasn't shocked to learn of the recognition.

"I wasn't surprised. I know what kind of water we're producing. We have the cleanest water source in the state and one of the best water processing facilities in the state," Sweeney said.

The mayor added that the addition of the new, 500,000 gallon water tank on Water Tower Hill will ensure that city residents have enough of that good water for the next 50 years.

The 49 systems honored are among 155 public and private water treatment plants in the state that participated in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Area-Wide Optimization Program (AWOP).

The program challenges plants to reduce turbidity levels below those required by state and federal regulations.

Turbidity, or cloudiness, of water can be caused by sand and dirt, as well as bacteria and viruses. Particle removal is critical for producing water that is free of dirt and microbes that can cause waterborne diseases.

"Together, these 49 systems serve more than a million Kentuckians who can be assured that their water treatment systems are committed to producing safe drinking water from Kentucky's lakes, rivers and reservoirs," said Julie Roney, coordinator of the Division of Water Drinking Water Program. "The operators and staff of these plants deserve our recognition and our gratitude for making the technical, managerial and financial improvements to their operations that allow them to continue to provide clean drinking water to the public."

Two of the water systems received an AWOP Champion Award. This award takes into account the number of years the system has been optimized, as well as the dedication of the operating staff. Hardin County Water District No. 2 won in the category for large population served (more than 10,000 customers). The Williamsburg Water Treatment Plant won the Champion Award for small population served (fewer than 10,000 customers).

Six treatment plants received special recognition for achieving the optimized water quality goals 100 percent of the time in 2011 -- Cave Run Regional Water Commission, Columbia/Adair County Water Treatment Plant, Greensburg Water Works, Hardin County Water District No. 2, Jackson County Water Association and Kentucky American in Richmond.

June is National Internet Safety month

Attorney General Jack Conway reminds Kentucky families about the importance of staying safe online. In observance of National Internet Safety month, and with many kids at home alone over the summer months, General Conway encourages parents to talk to their children about the Internet and how to stay safe online.

A survey of 10- to 17-year-olds by the Pew Research Center and National Center for Missing and Exploited Children showed that 34 percent had posted their real names, telephone numbers, home addresses, or names of their schools online, Conway said. The Internet is a wonderful tool but it can also be a tool for crime. Parents need to monitor their child's online activities and remind children and teens to think before they post and to never arrange in person meetings with someone they have met online.

Since taking office in January of 2008, Conway and his staff have presented educational cyber safety programs to more than 52,000 students and parents across Kentucky to help them realize the dangers that exist online.

Conway has also cracked down on Internet predators and child pornography through his Cybercrimes Unit. Since its creation in June of 2008, the unit has launched nearly 270 child pornography investigations and seized more than 300,000 child pornographic images and videos from the Internet. The Cybercrimes Unit is also a member of the Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force.

Conway asks parents to follow these simple steps to help keep their kids safe this summer and throughout the year.

Online Safety Checklist:

Google your children (and yourself) often for your child's contact information. It can help you spot ways in which your child's personal information may be exposed to strangers online or could be an early detection system for cyberbullying posts.

Keep the computer in a family room, kitchen or open area, NOT in a child's bedroom.

Teach your children they should never meet an online friend in person unless you are with them.

Find out what email and instant messaging accounts they have and ask them for their passwords for those accounts.

Teach your children about the dangers of cell phone cameras and how they may be used against them. Cell phone images can be easily downloaded, altered and exploited on the Internet.

Consider installing monitoring and filtering software. Check for free downloads at www.safefamilies.com or www.K9webprotection.com.

Texting/Cyberbullying

The following are important tips from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC) regarding texting and cyberbullying.

Never respond to harassing or rude comments.

Save or print the evidence.

Talk to your parents or guardian if you are harassed and get help reporting this to your ISP, school, or local law enforcement if you feel threatened.

Report anyone you don't know who asks for your personal information, photos, or videos.

Report inappropriate or obscene material from people or companies you don't know.

Tips To Prevent Sexting

Think about the consequences of taking, sending or forwarding a sexual picture of someone underage, even if it's of you.

Never take images of yourself that you wouldn't want everyone — your classmates, teachers, family or employers — to see.

Before hitting send, remember that you can't control where this image may travel.

If you forward a sexual picture of someone underage, you are as responsible for this image as the original sender. You could face pornography charges, go to jail and have to register as a sex offender.

Report any nude pictures you receive on your cell phone to an adult you trust.

Rep. Terry Mills appointed to legislature's Tobacco Settlement Oversight Committee

State Rep. Terry Mills has been appointed to the General Assembly's Tobacco Settlement Agreement Fund Oversight Committee, House Speaker Greg Stumbo announced.

"Terry already has a deep understanding of the importance of these settlement funds and how they are used to help the people of Kentucky, so it was an easy decision to appoint him to this committee," Stumbo said. "He will do a great job of making sure that we're maximizing every dollar the state spends."

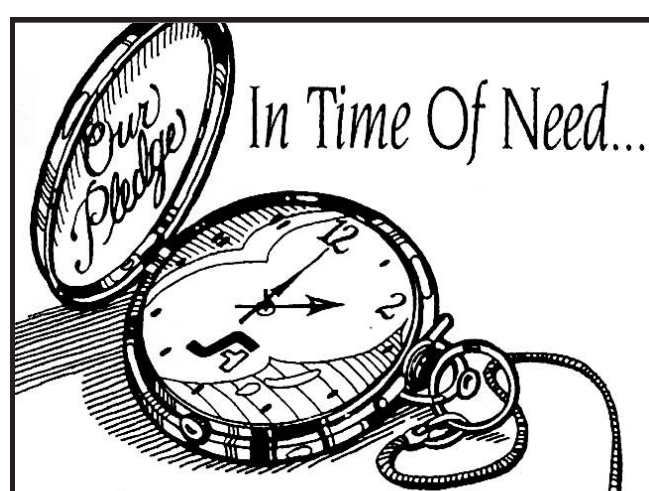

"This is really an honor, and I look forward to working with my fellow committee members," said Rep. Mills, D-Lebanon, who is replacing a former member who has left the legislature. "There have been a lot of success stories when it comes to the use of this money, and I am determined to see that we continue that trend."

The 12-member committee was formed after Kentucky and most other states reached a $200 billion settlement with the major tobacco companies in 1998; the companies agreed to provide the money over a 25-year period in exchange for the states agreeing not to pursue legal action on smoking-related illnesses.

Kentucky was praised in 2000 when the General Assembly agreed to split the state's portion in three ways — Agriculture would get half to help farmers diversify, and the remainder would be split equally by early childhood development programs and a high-risk health insurance pool for those unable to buy insurance elsewhere. For farming alone, the program has provided more than $370 million since 2001.

Improving Kentucky's collective health a major challenge for future

Terry Mills
State Representative

If today turns out to be an average one for Kentucky's hospitals, here is a glimpse of what is taking place: More than 6,600 patients will be treated in emergency rooms; 14,000 more will be helped with other outpatient services; 1,500 will be discharged after a stay of about four-and-a-half days; and 150 of the state's newest citizens will be born.

This information, compiled by the Kentucky Hospital Association, gives us a much clearer view of the one place in our communities that we may not always want to visit but are always glad that it's there.

Overall, 72,000 people work at our hospitals, putting them ninth among the state's industries in total employment but sixth when measuring each industry's average salary. These hospitals – found in 81 counties, with 13 counties having more than one – generate about $4 billion in local economic activity each year, while providing more than a half-billion dollars in state and local taxes.

Although most of our hospitals cover a wide range of services, we have quite a few that specialize as well. There are six freestanding rehabilitation hospitals across the state, for example, and 12 other community hospitals that have space dedicated to this care; combined, they can treat about 700 people at a time. We also have four state-run psychiatric hospitals, nine others that are privately owned and 27 community hospitals that also are licensed in this field. Statewide, there are 2,900 slots in this area.

Census figures from 2008 show that we have about 11,300 doctors, or 265 for every 100,000 citizens. That's low when compared to the national average, which is 326 per 100,000. For Kentucky to reach this level, we would have to hire 2,600 more physicians.

The recession also played a role in the growing numbers of Kentuckians qualifying for Medicaid. When you combine that trend with more of our graying population joining Medicare, it's easier to understand why those enrolled in these two programs made up two-thirds of all patients staying in our hospitals in 2010.

Our collective health, unfortunately, is another major driver behind many of our visits to the doctor. We have the nation's highest cancer rates when adjusted for age, and we're ninth highest in accidents, 10th in heart disease and 13th for strokes. If we could improve these figures, it would raise our quality of life and save us tens of millions of dollars, if not more.

I think that's our biggest challenge in the years ahead. It will take all of us working together to make these strides, but our hospitals – and the medical community as a whole – will naturally continue playing a frontline role. We can't do it without them.

Should you have any questions about this issue or anything else involving state government, I would like to know.

My address is Room 329B, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

You can also leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

New superintendent for Adair County schools

ADAIR COUNTY — The Adair County Board of Education held a special-called meeting on June 12 to interview three candidates for the position of superintendent of schools. The candidates had been chosen by the Superintendent Selection Committee. Just prior to the meeting one of the candidates informed the committee that he was no longer interested in the position.

The remaining two candidates are Adair County resident Alan Reed, and Mark Thomas from the Nelson County School System.

The board will have another special-called meeting on June 13 to decide which candidate will be hired.

Don't let the bedbugs bite

BOYLE COUNTY — Thomas and Lisa McManus were arrested on fourth-degree assault charges after police responded to reports of domestic violence in progress at their house on Caldwell Street.

After the couple was taken into custody, authorities learned their house was infested with bed bugs. The couple, along with the arresting officers, had to be decontaminated before they were allowed to enter the Boyle County Detention Center.

Danville Fire Department officers wearing HazMat suits set up a decontamination station outside the jail and assisted with the decontamination.

Former deputy jailer indicted for rape

LINCOLN COUNTY — Scott Roberts of Waynesburg, a former Lincoln County deputy jailer, has been indicted on six counts of third-degree rape. He is charged with engaging in sexual intercourse with an inmate incarcerated at the Lincoln County Detention Center while he was working there. The alleged acts occurred in October and November 2011. Lincoln County Jailer David Gooch said Roberts abruptly resigned from his job in late November.

Roberts is the third former jail employee in the last three months to face criminal charges. Former Deputy Jailer Gabriel Owens was charged with promoting contraband earlier in June, and in March, former Deputy Jailer Justin Pearson was charged with first-degree drug trafficking.

The Turtleman does New York

MARION COUNTY — Ernie Brown Jr., the Turtleman, was in the Big Apple last week promoting the second season of "Call of the Wildman" on Animal Planet. He appeared on "The Today Show" and also interviewed with various media outlets from around the country.

Brown told a Lebanon Enterprise reporter that he wanted to meet American journalist, author, and television personality Anderson

Cooper. That night he made it happen when he surprised Cooper on his television show, "Anderson Cooper 360" on CNN.

Pulaski farmer dies in tractor accident

PULASKI COUNTY — Clarence "Butch" Crow, 53, of the Shopville-Stab area in eastern Pulaski County, was killed when the tractor he was using lost control and traveled approximately 250 feet down a steep grassy hill behind his residence. The tractor struck a tree at the bottom of the hill.

The coroner noted that when the tractor hit the tree, Crow was ejected and thrown up into the cab, apparently hitting his head on the front post of the vehicle. He said that if there had been a seatbelt in the cab, it probably would have prevented the fatality.

Sheriff Todd Wood, who was called to the scene, described the hill as dangerous to be using a tractor to mow.

New restrooms for Lake Cumberland Recreation Center

RUSSELL COUNTY — The Russell County Fiscal Court entered into a memorandum of agreement to accept a $10,000 grant for the Lake Cumberland Recreation Center restroom project. The grant was actually awarded last fall but the county has been awaiting approval from the National Park Service before accepting the grant.

The county, in accepting the grant, agreed to provide matching funds in the project that will cost approximately $20,000 to provide restrooms at the former Alligator Boat Dock facilities.

Hospital contractors on strike over hiring issues

TAYLOR COUNTY — Construction workers with Wehr Constructors Inc. protested outside the construction site of Taylor County Regional Hospital's new surgery center on June 4. The men, who are part of a carpenter's union, went on strike after demanding that the company they work for use only union carpenters.

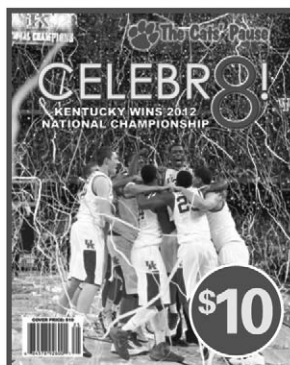

Larry Hujo, a senior staff representative for the Indiana/Kentucky/Ohio Regional Council of Carpenters, said that Wehr had a contract with the workers that expired on May 31. Negotiations to renew the contract began but failed. As a result, the workers went on strike June 4.

Hujo said other carpenters have signed Wehr's contracts, but those in his union haven't. He said Wehr was making demands with which the union couldn't live.

Taylor Regional Hospital's new surgical center should be completed in a few months, according to CEO Jane Wheatley. She said the strike at the construction site shouldn't delay the opening, which is slated for Oct. 8.

Ask A Senior Question Get A Savvy Answer

Financial resources available for grandparents raising grandchildren

Dear Savvy Senior,

Are there any types of financial assistance programs that can help grandparents who are raising their grandkids? I have two grandchildren who are about to permanently move in with my husband and me, and we could use some help.

Parents Again

Dear Parents

When it comes to raising grandkids, you definitely have plenty of company. Across the country about 5.8 million children are living with their grandparents, as the parents struggle with a variety of problems such as financial hardship, drug and alcohol addiction, prison time, domestic violence, divorce and more.

To help with the day-to-day expenses of raising grandkids, there are a variety of government programs and tax benefits that can make a big difference in stretching your budget. Here's where to look for help.

Financial Assistance

For starters, find out whether your family qualifies for your state's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program, which may include cash assistance, food stamps and free or low-cost daycare. Or, if your household income is too high to qualify as a family, ask about the "child-only grant" for just the grandchild's support alone. Also, find out if your state offers any additional programs like guardianship subsidies, non-parent grants or kinship care. Contact your state TANF program (see www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/ofa for contact information), or call your county social services office for more information.

You also need to find out if your grandkids are eligible for Social Security, including benefits for children, survivor benefits or SSI. You can find this out at your local Social Security office, or call 800-772-1213 or see www.ssa.gov.

And finally, use benefitscheckup.org, a comprehensive web resource that helps you search for additional financial assistance programs that you may be eligible for, such as lower energy bills, discounts on prescription medications and more.

Tax Benefits

In addition to the financial assistance resources,

Uncle Sam offers some tax benefits that may help you too like the Dependency Exemption which allows you to deduct $3,800 in 2012 on each qualifying grandchild.

There's also the Earned Income Tax Credit or EITC which is available to those with moderate to low incomes, or the Child Tax Credit if you make too much money to qualify for the EITC.

If you're working, and are incurring child care expenses in order to work, there's a Child and Dependent Care Credit that can help. And, if you choose to legally adopt your grandkids, there's an Adoption Credit that provides a federal tax credit of up to $12,650 per child.

There are even education-related tax credits through the American Opportunity Tax Credit or the Lifetime Learning Credit to help if your grandkids go to college.

To learn more about these tax benefits call 800-829-1040, or visit www.irs.gov. You can also call the IRS publication line at 800-829-3676 and ask them to mail you the following publications: 501, 503, 596, 970, 972, and Form 8839.

Health Insurance

If your grandkids need health insurance, depending on your income level, you may be able to get free or low-cost health insurance through your state's Medicaid and the Children's Health Insurance Program. See insurekidsnow.gov or call 877-543-7669 for more information.

Legal Issues

You also need to talk to a family law attorney to discuss the pros and cons of obtaining legal guardianship, custody or adoption. Without some sort of legal custody, you may not be eligible for many of the previously listed financial assistance programs, and there can be problems with basic things like enrolling your grandkids in school, or giving a doctor permission to treat them.

If your need help locating affordable or free legal assistance use findlegalhelp.org, or call the Eldercare Locator at 800-677-1116 for referrals.

Savvy tip: To find support with other grandparents who are raising their grandchildren, visit the AARP GrandCare Support Locator at giclocalsupport.org where you can search for support groups in your area.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Fred's Finest $50 reward for gas thief still good

Originally published in the Jan. 31, 1962 issue of The Casey County News

Jack Wells of Yosemite says his reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a gasoline thief is still good this week.

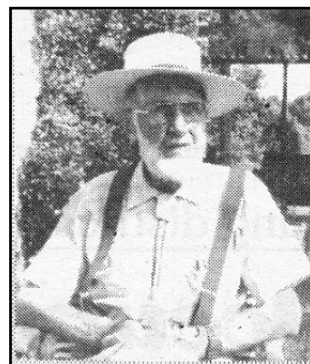

There is a difference this week, however, said Mr. Wells. The thief should be carrying lead from parts of three shotgun shell loads somewhere on his anatomy.

Mr. Wells said he heard the thief, who he thinks took 21 gallons the week before, at his car last Thursday night. At a distance of 40 yards Mr. Wells let him have a load of No. 5 shot.

The man yelled, "O Lord," but kept running so he got the second load at 50 yards. This time he just yelled, "Oh!" The third load at 60 yards brought a "Help me. Help me."

He made it to his parked car leaving blood marks over the highway and seemed to get in on the right side of the car, indicating to Mr. Wells that the driver did not get into the stealing.

He left a five-gallon can and a rubber hose. Here hangs another story. Mr. Wells collected them and set them in front of his barn across the road from his house. By noon the next day they had been stolen. Mr. Wells says he believes they were taken to avoid additional evidence.

New law aims to keep Kentucky hospital emergency rooms safer

By Marla Toncray

The Ledger Independent

Legislation passed during the 2012 General Assembly regular session will help keep patients and employees safer in Kentucky's emergency rooms. Senate Bill 58 was signed into law April 11 by Gov. Steve Beshear and takes affect July 12.

State Rep. Mike Denham (D-Maysville) said the law was designed to protect emergency room staff and patients after an increase in assaults in emergency rooms, particularly in larger cities around the state.

According to the Legislative Research Commission website, SSB 58 "amends Kentucky Revised Statute 431.005 relating to arrests to permit a peace officer to make an arrest or issue a citation for a violation of KRS 508.030, assault in the 4th degree, which is a misdemeanor, even when the officer did not view the commission of the offense if there is probable cause to make the arrest if the assault occurred in the emergency room of a hospital ... amend KRS 431.015 mandating the use of a citation in lieu of arrest to exempt an arrest for 4th degree assault in a hospital emergency room. "

Maysville Police Chief Ron Rice said there hasn't been a marked increase of assaults locally, but it does happen from time to time and usually involves a person under the influence of alcohol or illegal drug abuse.

Rice said his department issues citations as mandated in KRS 431.015, when incidents have occurred in the past.

A key point of the law is the police officer does not have to witness the assault to place an individual under arrest.

"From a hospital's perspective, we are always supportive of any law that protects our patients, their family and our staff from any type of violence," said Robert Parker, CEO at Meadowview Regional Medical Center.

Mary Bauer, president of the Kentucky State Emergency Nurses Association attended a ceremonial signing of the law with Beshear on Monday.

"Assaults in emergency departments are dangerous not just for the health care professionals who work in the department, but they also threaten the health and safety of our patients," said Bauer. "It's crucial that we treat assaults as the serious crimes that they are and that the penalties for these crimes are commensurate with the danger they pose. Today, with the signing of this law, we are taking another step toward keeping emergency departments, our colleagues and our patients safe.

"We particularly want to thank ENA member Linda Robinson RN, CEN, CFN for her efforts to promote and get this bill passed and Senator John Schickel for his sponsorship on this issue."

The bill passed both the House and Senate by unanimous votes and was supported by the National ENA, Kentucky State ENA, The Kentucky Police Chief's Association, The Kentucky Hospital Association, The Kentucky American College of Emergency Physicians, and nurses across the state.

10 die on Kentucky roadways June 4-10

Preliminary statistics indicate that ten people died in nine separate crashes on Kentucky roadways from Monday, June 4, through Sunday, June 10, 2012.

Eight of the fatalities involved motor vehicles and five victims were not wearing seat belts.

Single-fatality crashes occurred in Laurel, Madison, Marshall, Powell, Todd and Warren counties.

One double-fatality crash occurred in Simpson County. The crash in Warren County involved the suspected use of alcohol .

There was one motorcycle involved fatality in Marion County and the victim was not wearing a helmet.

One pedestrian involved crash occurred in Jefferson County and involved the suspected use of alcohol. Through June 10, 2012, preliminary statistics indicate that 320 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2012.

This is 41 more fatalities than reported for the same time period in 2011.

There have been 265 motor vehicle fatalities and 153 of those victims were not wearing seat belts. Thirty-two of those crashes involved a commercial motor vehicle. Twenty-seven crashes involved a motorcycle and sixteen victims were not wearing helmets.

Three crashes involved an ATV and two victims were not wearing helmets. Twenty-four crashes involved a pedestrian and one involved a bicycle.

Fifty-five deaths have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas. Crash data for this report is generated from the Kentucky Fatality Analysis Reporting System (FARS).

Kentucky gun law changes are coming on July 12

By Scott Wartman

The Kentucky Enquirer

People won't need a license to carry a concealed deadly weapon in their home or business that they own when a new law goes into effect July 12.

The General Assembly passed House Bill 484 with ease in this year's regular session, passing the House 86-5 and the Senate 36-1 with the governor signing it into law April 11.

Gun owners saw it as a reaffirmation for their right to defend their property.

"My favorite saying is, 'When seconds count, the police are only minutes away,'" said Homer Cole, owner of Shooters Supply and Sporting Goods in Independence.

The bill received 36 sponsors both Democrat and Republican and was one of three bills that passed this year with the support of the National Rifle Association.

Another bill, House Bill 500, strengthened the state supremacy of its gun laws by preventing local government and public agencies from enacting stricter gun control laws than the state. The NRA characterized the third bill, House Bill 563, as one that would "protect lawful firearm retailers from illegal gun sting operations."

State Rep. Dennis Keene, D-Wilder, co-sponsored all three and called House Bill 484 a no-brainer. The law requires a conceal carry license unless the person owns or leases the property or is the grandparent, parent or child of the owner and has the owner's permission. The person must be the sole proprietor of the business to carry a concealed gun without a license on the business property.

"Being a homeowner and business owner when I was in the grocery store business before Kentucky had a concealed carry law, I felt I was at jeopardy on my property," Keene said. "I was in a high-crime area. I felt it was a no-brainer. If you are on your own property, protecting your own stuff, you should be able to carry a gun."

Many gun owners were surprised to learn Kentucky law didn't already allow people to carry a concealed deadly weapon in their home or a business they own unless they had a conceal-carry license.

The new law will clearly state that people can have a concealed firearm on their property and prevent any legal confusion, said Tim Harney, who teaches a concealed-carry course at Shooters Supply and Sporting Goods.

I think it is needed, especially when you think about being in your own house and you can't conceal a firearm," Harney said "Most people didn't understand it or realize you couldn't do it. Now that it's gone into effect, I hear people that are happy it is a new law."

Gun owner Kevin Koshiol, of Hebron, agrees with the new law.

"I would say it is appropriate they can arm themselves and protect themselves," Koshiol said. "There are probably a lot of business owners that are surprised they couldn't do this. I don't know if it changes anything. I guess it should be identified what you can do and where the limits are. I think that's important."

Kentucky has allowed non-felon residents to carry concealed deadly weapons with a permit since 1996. They must meet many requirements and still can't carry weapons into some places, including courthouses, elementary and secondary schools, childcare facilities, and at a meeting of a government body.

"Kentucky, Florida and Texas are three of the most welcoming states dealing with firearms in the country," Cole said. "I believe the legislatures around here are sensible enough to realize this is what the people want. I feel most people should have the right to own firearms and protect themselves in any condition and wherever they're at."

Most states allow for homeowners and business owners to carry concealed deadly weapons on their property without a license, said Stephanie Samford, spokeswoman with the NRA.

"We're dedicated to making sure law-abiding people defend themselves," Samford said. "This bill helps with that."

Many in the law enforcement community haven't expressed concern about House Bill 484.

Police expressed concerns in the 1990s about the conceal-carry laws but have adapted and routinely ask whether someone has a concealed weapon, said Michael Bischoff, executive director of the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police. That state legislature has made more than 20 different changes to its concealed carry law since it was first enacted to make it safer, Bischoff said.

"Here it has been pretty well regulated," he said. "It keeps being improved upon."

preliminary hearing on June 14. Court records state that Burt has been assigned a public defender.

Jerry Tucker, who founded the Galilean Home with his late wife Sandy in 1986, said that Burt was fired a month ago for making suggestive remarks to female residents.

"Once I found out about it,

I fired him immediately," he said, adding that Wednesday was the first time he learned of Burt's alleged acts with a resident.

Although he had worked at the facility for 22 years, after open heart surgery in January, Burt was working a limited schedule, Tucker said.

The special-needs female that Burt allegedly had sex with was adopted by the Tuckers some 25 years ago and acts like a child, Tucker said.

"When you're around her, you think she's about 7 years old," he said.

According to Tucker, Burt's wife serves as the home's medical director and his son works on the maintenance crew.

"We'll support and stand by her," Tucker said.

The Board of the Galilean Home also oversees the Galilean Christian Academy and the Born Free ministry, where children are cared for while their mothers are in prison.

The ministry also includes the Bread of Life Cafe in Liberty, where residents from the home work, and the Liberty Trading Post, a thrift store which sells secondhand goods.

If everything goes according to schedule, Liberty Elementary School students and teachers will attend school beginning in January in climate-controlled comfort.

Casey County Board of Education members learned at Monday night's meeting that bids for the $127,000 project should be opened on July 13 with work commencing Aug. 8, said John Newman, an engineer with Clotfelter-Samokar in Lexington.

According to District Maintenance Director Dale

Sellers, contractors will replace the old boiler unit used to heat the building.

A geo-thermal system using water drawn from wells will be used to control the heating and cooling units. The same geo-thermal systems are used at Walnut Hill Elementary, Jones Park Elementary, and Casey County High School.

Also, air-conditioning will be added in the old part of the building which has used window units.

In addition, the windows in the old part of the building will be replaced, Sellers said, adding the project is scheduled to be completed sometime in mid-January, if the weather cooperates.

Baseball, softball players honored at banquet

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Casey County High School baseball and softball teams officially concluded their 2012 seasons Sunday at the high school cafeteria with a joint awards banquet.

Baseball coach Greg Hammond and softball coach Brook Shelton thanked the players and parents for all of their time and support throughout their first seasons as head coaches.

Baseball

Hammond spoke highly of the eight seniors that graduated this spring.

"It was really good to work with these young men," Hammond said. "They worked hard and they did the best they can do and that's all I can ask."

Hammond honored each senior with his own plaque. Daniel Bastin, Tyler Hayes, Chris Lee and Jordan Salle were all present while Luke Atwood, Keaton Kleffman, Logan Weddle and Luke Wilson were unable to attend the banquet.

Additionally, Bastin and Weddle received the infield award and outfield award respectively. Hayes was honored for having the highest batting average and Lee was given the earned run average (ERA) award.

Most improved went to Kleffman for his improvement over his career as a Rebel baseball player.

Hammond encouraged his returning juniors, sophomores and freshmen to work and recruit for next season.

"I need you guys to be working now," Hammond said. "If you're not in a summer league you know the things you need to be doing to get yourselves better. I need you guys to be leaders and step up and get some more guys out."

The baseball team finished the 2012 season with a 7-26 record.

Softball

Despite a small roster, Shelton thanked her players for the effort they made to make the season all that it was.

"I think, as a team, we started out really rough, but that could have to do with the fact I was new," Shelton told the athletes. "But by the end of the season we really came together as a team and I'm really proud of you all as a team."

The three seniors, Abby Buis, Paige Herron and Amber Vaughn, were honored first.

"I had a really good, eventful season working with you all," Shelton said to the girls who graduated this May giving several shout outs for particular memorable moments on the field.

Individual awards were also presented. Tia Smith was given the infield award while Vaughn received the outfield award.

Amber Wesley was honored for having the most runs batted in (RBI). Shelton also made note of Wesley's grand slam that sealed one of their season victories.

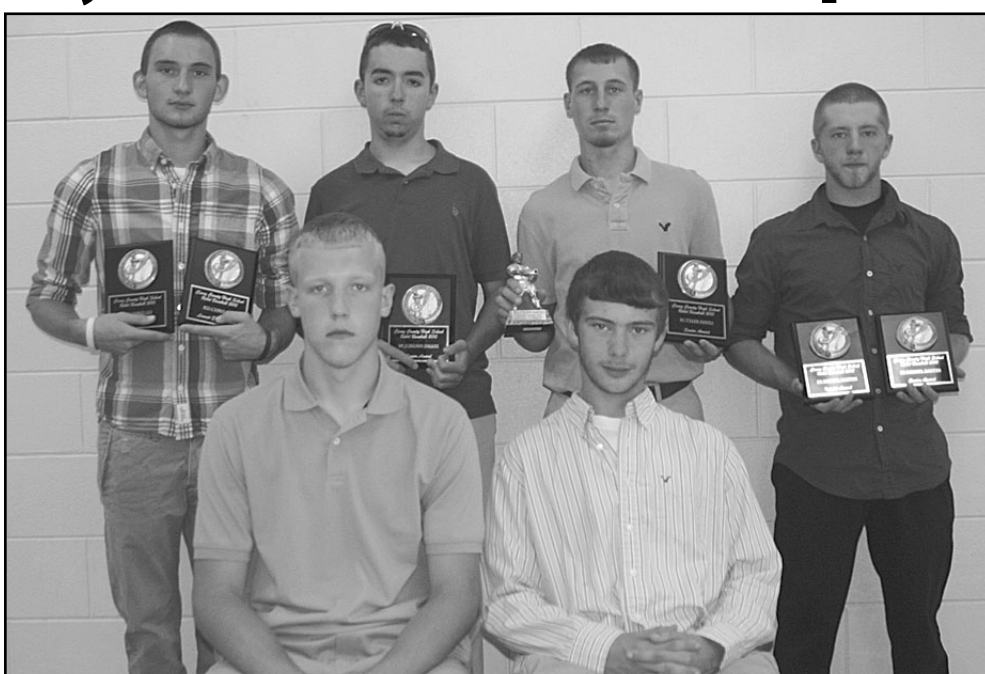

Jessica Richardson received the most improved award.

"This award is not because of her abilities but because of her confidence," Shelton said, explaining that her abilities were there throughout the season, but the improved confidence enabled those abilities.

The most valuable player award was given to Raven Clements.

"When I didn't have a catcher, she stepped up and did it," Shelton said. "She said, 'I'll do whatever I need to do for us to play.'"

The Lady Rebels finished their season with a 3-19 record.

The boys and girls tennis teams came together for their 2012 season banquet Thursday at the high school to recognize all of the athletes who participated.

Boys' coach Phil Williams and girls' coach Tommy Wood presented all of their athletes with plaques that included their singles and doubles records for the season.

Additionally, regional and state accomplishments were recognized and denoted on the players' respective plaques for their individual feats.

Skyler Wright and Clay Cannon were quarterfinalists in regional doubles and Ryan Martin was a semifinalist in regional singles. Martin advanced to compete in the state tournament as well.

The team had a season record of 19-1, picking up their first loss since 2008 in their final regular season match. The Rebel tennis team graduated two seniors, Cannon and Martin.

Wood spoke highly of his girls' team which finished runner-up in the region for the first time in school history. Five of the regional competitors advanced to state.

Tylyn Leigh was the region's singles champion and she made her debut trip to the state tournament. Leigh also went undefeated through the entire season until the state tournament.

Allie Tinsley and Haley Owens were the region's runner-up doubles team and made their second trip to the state tournament, where they advanced to the second round.

Chelsey Lynn and Sara Coffman made it to the semifinals in the region's doubles play and also advanced to state.

The team went 11-2 in the regular season, falling only to Mercer County, the same team that also won the region.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

Coffman shines at the collegiate level in basketball, track

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

Nicole Coffman, a 2011 graduate of Casey County High School, has just completed her freshman year at Transylvania University where she was a member of both the women's basketball team and track and field team. With one season under her belt, she is already leading the team with records and honors.

Coffman was a member of the Lady Rebel varsity basketball team for five seasons where she typically played a shooting guard position. She continues to improve in the shooting guard position on the collegiate level while also competing in sprint events on the track.

RH: What have you liked most about your collegiate athlete experience?

NC: It gives me opportunities to develop more as a player and recovering from my ACL reconstruction injury, it proves to me that I can get through hard situations if I want to bad enough.

RH: Have you accomplished any major goals or milestones while on the collegiate level?

NC: Mainly overcoming my surgery and becoming strong once again.

RH: Have you been a part of any special awards or accomplishments at your school?

NC: In college, my freshman year so far, I've been player of the week for the Heartland conference in basketball once,

I was MVP of my team, and I was freshman of the year in my conference. Also averaged the most points on my team. It was like 15 something. (14.6)

RH: How many seasons do you have left and what goals do you have for the future?

NC: I have three years left of collegiate sports and I hope to graduate with a degree in biology and then go to medical school and some day be a surgeon. Not sure what kind of surgeon yet though.

Editor's Note: Throughout the summer, Sports Correspondent Rita Harris will catch up with various Casey County Rebel alumni who have gone on to pursue athletics after high school in this new seasonal weekly feature, Alumni Spotlight.

SPORTS TALK

Another year passes with no Triple Crown winner

Next year will be year 35 since the last winner, Affirmed, brought home the crown in 1978. It's not that there haven't been "almosts," like this year. Eleven horses have won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness since '78 but then fallen short when the June race arrives. Seven other horses have won a combination of two of the three races.

I got to spend a good amount of time with a close college friend this weekend whose life and career is dominated by the horse world.

Since the time I've known her, she has been waking up at 5 a.m. or 6 a.m. (despite the time we went to bed or what morning classes she had to attend) to make it to the stables for barn duties. She now travels pretty heavily up and down the east coast for competition and training.

This friend, Liz, primarily trains horses for cross country and jumping competitions, rather than racing, like we watch for the Kentucky Derby, but her horse knowledge and connections are very extensive.

It was interesting to hear her talk about I'll Have Another being scratched from the race on Saturday. Like most of you, I heard reactions of shock, disappointment and sadness for the horse and all of those involved in its success.

I thought of how it deflated the hype for the Belmont event itself. Those, like me, who do not keep up with horse racing in general, no longer had any motivation to pay attention to the race.

Liz's reaction was different. She somewhat rolled her eyes and said some unkind words about the trainer. First she made mention of the sketchy background on the trainer, Doug O'Neil, who is about to serve a 45-day suspension in California due to his horses having high levels of carbon dioxide in their system. Then she made note of the rigorous training these young horses are put through in order to compete.

The training regime of these Triple Crown competitors is a perspective I have never considered. With a required age of three years in order to compete, what is the actual physical condition of these horses?

According to research completed in 2003 by Equine Resources International, a three-year-old horse is comparable to an 18-year-old human. Peak physical condition is reached in most horses at age 5, sometimes age 4.

Think about it... we have many, many incredible athletes who become instantly famous freshmen at the college level because of their natural talent; however, through high school, coaches are usually restricted to how much training they can require of their athletes. Even college has restrictions to some degree. It is just not healthy to push to certain extremes. Our bodies at that age have not reached their full development most of the time.

Horses are no different. It is likely that when these races were first established many years ago, no research had ever been conducted to accurately know the physical maturity of a horse. However, the race traditions continue and any competitive spirit knows we like to push our limits to achieve the end goal.

At the end of the day, all of the horses who ever have and ever will compete in the Triple Crown races are going above and beyond. It's definitely a let down to see an opportunity for a great horse to not even have the chance to break the 34-year Triple Crown dry spell when it was definitely possible.

However, just like with any athlete, its life and health must be put first. It is good to know that despite our competitive spirit, it is remembered that these animals are live creatures and not just a means for money, a title and fame.
